with a transaction ID and a “payment status” gauge. The status updates from “Pending” to “Cleared” within minutes, removing the guesswork that previously required bank statements or phone calls. The portal’s “My Documents” tab lets users drag and drop PDFs, images, or CSV files directly into a secure vault linked to a specific tax year or vehicle registration. Uploaded files are automatically indexed by type, so a future audit can pull the exact receipt with a single click. Hobbyists who keep receipts for craft’sale exemptions or equipment depreciation can thus avoid the usual folder’s stacking nightmare. By enabling the “Reminder Settings” option, the system sends email or SMS alerts a week before a filing deadline, when a renewal is due, or if a filed return is flagged for review. The alerts are configurable by frequency and channel, allowing users to tailor notifications to their preferred workflow without relying on external calendar apps. Within the “Self-Assessment” section, a calculator pulls prior’s year income, anticipated deductions, and current tax tables to generate a provisional liability figure. The estimator updates instantly as you adjust inputs, so hobbyists can experiment with expense categories’such as workshop rent or material costs’s and see the impact on their projected tax bill.
