meetings like a pro! This comprehensive tutorial walks you throughÂ ... When a campus management system (CMS) fails to sync class times, exam slots, and extracurricular events, students and faculty scramble to resolve overlapping commitments. A reliable academic calendar built into the CMS eliminates guesswork, keeps resources allocated efficiently, and protects the integrity of the academic schedule. A mid-semester lecturer discovers that a departmental seminar has been booked in the same lecture hall at the same hour. The clash forces the professor to either relocate the class or cancel the seminar, both of which disrupt learners' plans. This situation arises when the CMS does not enforce a single source of truth for room reservations. Immediate action: Pull the shared calendar view, verify the conflict, and reassign one event to an available slot. Long-term fix: Enable the CMS to block double-bookings automatically and require approval for any overrides.
